Logistic Regression

- Used to solve Classification Problems
- The response variable is categorical in nature
- It helps calculate the possibility of a particular event taking place.

- An S-curve. (S = Sigmoid)

Linear Regression

- Used to solve Regression Problems
- The response variables are continuous in nature
- It helps estimate the dependent variable when there is a change in the independent variable.

- Is a straight line.